Officially Announced

Ministers of the Powers Informed of Death of Li Hung Chang.

Will Be Buried in Coffin That
He Carried Around the World.

On Sunday Chinese Officials Will Pay Respects to the Dead.

Peking, Nov. 7.—The end of Li Hung Chang was quiet. His vitality slowly ebbed away. For a time he lost consciousness, but he showed great tenacity, rallied at midnight, partook of nourishment, and appeared to recognize his relatives.

The foreign doctors left him early yesterday, saying that nothing more could be done. His personal physician, Dr. Watt, then took charge. The controversy between the foreign and Chinese doctors had no effect upon the patient, because he was already beyond the hope of recovery.

The flames of the procession of paper edifices, chairs, horses, burned in the court yard of the Yamen to carry his spirit to Heaven, told the crowd of officials who were gathered in the narrow street, that the end had come. Soon afterward a procession appeared bearing a costly coffin of teak wood, beautifully lacquered. This coffin Li Hung Chang took on his trip around the world, and he brought it from Canton, when he came to Peking to settle the "Boxer" troubles. Since that time it had been kept in a temple here.

The body will be placed in the coffin tomorrow with the customary rites. On Sunday there will be a ceremony corresponding to a lying in state, and all the Chinese officials will pay their respects. A separate day will be designated for the ministers of the powers.

The time has not yet been decided upon for interment, but an announcement was telegraphed to the court announcing his death and a circular sent to the ministers of the powers. It is expected that when the court received the news, an edict was issued bestowing posthumous honors upon the deceased and probably advancing him to the rank of a Marquis, which title will descend to his eldest son.

The ministers of the powers are personally sending messages of sympathy. Officials attached to Li's household informed the correspondent of the Associated Press today that the Russian minister, M. Paul Lessar, called early in the morning and strenuously endeavored to have the seal of Li Hung Chang attached to the Manchurian convention before he died. It is impossible to certify this statement from other than Chinese sources.

The Chinese officials were unable to obtain communication with Prince Ching today. The governor of Peking, the provincial treasurer, and the generals commanding the Chinese troops have sent a joint telegram to various points recommending Prince Ching to proceed.

A RAILWAY COMMISSION

One of the Demands Manufacturers Put Before the Government.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—The Canadian Manufacturers' association asked many things of the government represented by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. W. Patterson, at the Windsor hotel today. They asked for a railway commission; a direct steamship service between an eastern port in Canada and South Africa and Australia; and the readjustment of duties on woolens, irons and other products of Canadian manufacturers.

The ministers promised the matter consideration. Subsequently Hon. Wm. Patterson said that he was from Mr. Laurier to find the manufacturers, as a whole were satisfied with the present tariff, but he admitted that there was reason for changes.

Russia Is Stirred Up

The ministers of the powers consider Yuan Shi Kai the strongest man in China, after Li Hung Chang and they think his presence here would have a good influence on the country, but they fear the results of removing him from the province of Shan Tung, the most turbulent province in the empire, and the seat of the Boxer movement.

Yuan Shi Kai has controlled the province with an iron hand. The situation there is particularly delicate on account of the friction with the Germans; and the substitution of a man with less tact would doubtless mean uprisings and a conflict between the Chinese and Germans. The death of Li Hung Chang is doubly regrettable because he was the only influential Chinaman who could deal with the foreign governments with an appreciation of foreign points of view.

STILL BARGAINING.

Conjectures as to Progress of Negotiations For Miss Stone's Rescue.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 7.—Yesterday Mr. Dickinson despatched a messenger with a reply to the Bulgarians' proposals, as formulated in Miss Stone's letter. It is understood that an agreement as to the amount of the ransom has been virtually established. The settlement as to the manner and place of payment presents the most difficulty, but an entente is expected soon. The Bulgarians are not willing to cross into Turkey to obtain the money while the Bulgarian government would oppose releasing Miss Stone on Bulgarian soil.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—No progress was reported in connection with the rescue of Miss Stone. On the contrary, it appears that the negotiations have been temporarily suspended from the Bulgarian side. An effort will be made to resume them through the Russian legation, secretary of the United States legation, is having frequent interviews with Sir Nicholas O'Connor, the British ambassador, with a view to resumption, and proposes to go to Thessalonica a few days in order to be in close touch with the ambassador.

Berlin, Nov. 8.—It is reported here, says a despatch from St. Petersburg to the Cologne Gazette, that France and Russia have arrived at an agreement for common action with a view to the execution of reforms in Armenia, and the European provinces of the Ottoman empire, guaranteed by the Sultan in the Berlin treaty. They propose to invite the signatory powers to meet in conference for this object. It is expected here that all the powers will accept the invitation, but the conference could not well be held before spring.

"In well informed circles in St. Petersburg a fear is expressed that the present steps of France may cause matters to develop so rapidly that Russia, despite the Czar's love of peace, may find herself driven into an attitude of another kind in order to safeguard her own interests. Events in Turkey and the Balkans are regarded in political circles with anxiety."

While Germany regards the action of France with comparative indifference, the fact is commented upon that the Paris government did not inform the powers of the triple alliance beforehand of the intended action toward Turkey.

Assuming the correctness of the statement that the United States and Great Britain were so informed, the Vossische Zeitung says: "France appears to be dealing unequally with the powers."

Government circles in Berlin say that Germany has not yet been addressed by France on the subject.

Constantinople, Nov. 8.—There is absolutely no foundation for the report that the Porte has demanded that Great Britain should protect Asiatic Turkey from French attack.

The report, which originated with the Echo de Paris, has already been denied by the British foreign office.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The French government is fairly satisfied with the progress already achieved in the dispute by the naval demonstration. The Sultan has promised to settle all monetary claims and has offered guarantees which fall little short of those demanded. France, however, will insist on full guarantees and also on the surrender of Turkey in the matter of treaty rights before evacuating Mitylene. No international complications are anticipated, in view of the powers' responses to France's note, and no trouble is expected on the island itself.

Gossip About Contingent

Applications For Commissions Are Daily Being Received at Ottawa.

Dominion By-Elections Will Take Place in Middle of Winter.

From Our Own Correspondent.
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 7.—Everybody is agog here about the sending of a cavalry contingent to South Africa, applications for commissions reaching the Militia department daily. All sorts of reports are current as to the government's attitude.

Your correspondent is in a position to state positively that the government, having carefully gone into the question has come to the conclusion that it would not be proper to make an offer to the Home authorities at this time. The ministers hold that if such tender of service were made now, it would look as if Canada was about to run the War office. They say the offer of last spring is still open.

Many here question the wisdom of the government's attitude. No information has been received from the Militia department about three companies of the 3rd Battalion, R. C. B., going to Bermuda.

The city is going to ask the government to purchase some additional fire apparatus such as a water tower and combination hose wagon and chemical engine at a cost of $13,000.

The bye-elections do not take place until the middle of winter. The voters' list of 1901 will be used, in Toronto, a portion of West York, in Kingston and for Belleville. In West Hastings boards of registrars will be appointed to enroll manhood suffrage voters.

A TALK FROM HEADQUARTERS

McGill Students Ask Principal For His Views and Get Them Red Hot.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—After the McGill students last theatre night, the students paraded the streets, became boisterous and damaged property. The police arrested a couple of students, and when they came before Recorder Weir, he told them it was time that a check were put on excesses by students. As a result two students were remanded for trial on the Monday following without bail. They spent Sunday in jail, and on Monday the rumor flew round amongst the students that Principal Peterson had written to the recorder asking him to make an example of the students. The result was a mass meeting of students, at which a committee was named to demand from the Principal an explanation of his conduct. They got it.

The Principal began by asking the committee if they thought it likely he would insult a judge, who was there to administer justice impartially, by pointing out his duty to him. The principal commented warmly upon the disrespect shown him in holding a meeting of students. Then the principal went for the students on his own account, and declared that they were entirely mistaken if they thought any one connected with McGill would endeavor to shield a student from punishment for their own lawlessness because they were McGill students. He endorsed the recorder's action. In conclusion the principal stated that the dormitory system, in his opinion, was necessary for the welfare of McGill. The students held a meeting tonight and accepted the principal's report.

BRITISH TRADE.

October Statement Shows Falling Off in Exports and Imports.

London, Nov. 7.—The October Statement of the board of trade shows decreases of £1,144,200 in imports and £795,300 in exports.

MORE FOG.

Mail Boat Damaged in Collision With Warship.

London, Nov. 7.—The heavy fog, which shut down upon London and half the country Tuesday, and which was partially dispersed yesterday afternoon, returned during the night and the south-eastern coasts were enveloped in a denser mantle than before.

The Dutch mail boat Koenigj Regentes collided with the British third-class cruiser Prosperine off Sheerness at midnight. The passengers and mails were transferred to the Prosperine and the mail boat was beached.

DISS DEBAR.

Many Witnesses Against Prisoner Remain to Be Heard.

London, Nov. 7.—The hearing of the charges against Theodore and Laura Jackson (Ann O'Leary Diss Debar) was resumed at the Marylebone police court today. The court was crowded. Laura Faulkner continued her testimony.

The clerk informed a representative of the Associated Press that enough witnesses had been summoned to keep them going for weeks.

There were no women in the audience. The testimony was largely a reiteration of that previously given. The most dramatic incident today was when Laura Jackson began her customary badgering cross-examination. She accused the latter of having been in the room at the time of the prisoner's escape, and pointing her finger at the female prisoner, vehemently denounced her as the author of her ruin. The audience raised loud applause, whereupon the presiding judge threatened to clear the court. The occurrence seemed to shake the nerves of the female prisoner, and her subsequent conduct of the case was not marked by the ability which she has heretofore displayed.

FRANCE IN POSSESSION.

Admiral Caillaud Meets No Opposition at Mitylene.

Paris, Nov. 7.—5:40 p.m.—A despatch from Admiral Caillaud has just been received, announcing that he landed his marines on the island of Mitylene this morning, and that the customs at Mitylene without resistance.

The French government has received satisfactory replies from all the powers, without exception, to its note explaining the measures taken against Turkey. An excellent impression has been created in official circles by the tone of the response of the United States, which is couched in the most friendly terms.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—The Porte has yielded still further to the French demands and has notified M. Baret, councillor of the French embassy, that authority is granted France to rebuild or repair 16 churches, convents and other institutions situated in different villages. St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—Newspapers here anticipate that following the lead of France, other powers will discover claims against Turkey. The Russian newspapers generally welcome the French naval demonstration in Turkish waters as a set-back to what the Russian terms "German pretensions in Turkey."

BOER LOSSES.

Kitchener Reports Further on Fight at Brakenlaagte.

London, Nov. 7.—Lord Kitchener, cabling supplementary details of the recent fight near Brakenlaagte, Eastern Transvaal, says:

"The Boer loss was 44 killed, including Gen. O'neill and 100 wounded. The Boers got nothing beyond the guns. The Boer attack was easily repulsed until the arrival of Louis Botha, with 600 men."

At Nottingham today, where Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, distributed a thousand war medals, he was repeatedly "hoed" and cheered were raised for Gen. Buller. The recipients of the medals at the luncheon subsequently given to their honor were repeatedly broken into cheers for Gen. Buller.

The meetings of the British cabinet recently have been chiefly devoted to South Africa and to drawing up plans for more strenuous efforts to end the campaign. One of the immediate results will be the dispatch of another 1,000 cavalry from England to South Africa. As Mr. Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, went yesterday afternoon directly from the cabinet meeting to the scene of the presentation to Major-General Baden-Powell, the defender of Mafeking, of the sword of honor sent from Australia, the secretary's declaration on the occasion may be accepted as the decision reached by the cabinet and as the government's reply to recent suggestions that the Boers should be offered terms.

Presiding at the presentation of the sword of honor, Mr. Chamberlain said now that the long struggle in South Africa was approaching its termination, neither the country nor the government had any right or wish to make any settlement which would render futile the sacrifices which had been made.

Kate Greenaway, R.L., received her artistic education at Kensington Art school and the Slade school, and first became known when she began her delightfully quaint pictures of child life that became so popular and have had so many imitators. She has indeed been called the best kind of social reformer, as she transferred over-dressed, tight-waisted children dressed in the orthodox French fashion into quaint, old world pictures. As a book illustrator, Miss Greenaway was famous, her charming pictures in children's books being the delight of hundreds of thousands of old and young.

He said he was convinced that at no distant period all questions now in controversy with neighboring nations would be satisfactorily settled.

KANSAS CONVICTS MUTINY.

One Killed and Several Guards Wounded—Many Escapes.

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 7.—One man was killed, three others were dangerously wounded and 26 convicts are at large, as a result of a mutiny late this afternoon at the site of the United States prison, two miles southeast of here, where 400 prisoners from the federal prison, in charge of 30 armed guards, were at work. When the trouble began, the rebellious prisoners had only two revolvers. These had been secreted in one of the walls of the building by some unknown persons.

When T. Hinds, superintendent of construction, and three armed men prepared to round up the men at the end of the day's work, the armed convicts covered them with revolvers and encouraged by the other mutinous convicts, forced the men to walk before them to the northwestern corner of the stockade.

The prisoners then made a grand rush for the main entrance and 26 of them succeeded in escaping. The men went in the direction of Easton, Mo., and it is reported here that they held up many farmers, taking horses and clothing.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Chicago Police Believe They Have Murderer of Felipe Rini.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7.—With the discovery of a blood-spattered basement room at 192 North Union avenue, and the arrest of its late occupant today, Felipe Rini, an Italian fruit vender, and mystery surrounding the death of Antonio Natali, whose body was found hidden in a barrel on the prairie near Western avenue and Rice streets, is believed to have been cleared up. That Natali was lured into the basement and murdered for his money by several men seems practically certain.

In the pocket of Rini was found $300, mostly in bills, supposed to be a part of the proceeds of the robbery, some of the bills being covered with what appears to be blood stains. Two bloody handkerchiefs were found in the house, and a trail of red stains leads to the street where Natali's body was supposed to have been loaded into a wagon and hauled away. A necktie identified as one belonging to Natali was found in the basement. In the yard were several fruit barrels similar to that in which the murdered Italian's body was found. A wagon in which the body is believed to have been hauled away was discovered in Rini's yard. There are stains in the driveway of the wagon believed to be blood stains.

The police also have Michael Leon, Dominica Duch, Dominica Vermoni and Giovanni Scafaria under arrest. One other alleged participant in the crime is being hunted.

McLEOD BEATEN.

Former Nainimo Wrestler Loses to Tom Jenkins.

Cleveland, Nov. 7.—Tom Jenkins won the catch-as-catch-can championship of the world in Central armory so the presence of 6,000 enthusiastic spectators, who had gathered to see the match, was not disappointed. The smaller cities are following their lead and it is not surprising that there should be complaints of a lack of stone in many quarters. A record of the notable stone buildings planned, or in process of construction in the smaller cities, that have been contacted themselves with brick and frame structures, would furnish a striking commentary on the growing favor of stone for building material. One such instance is so notable as to call for some comment.

The little town of Nelson, British Columbia, there is to be built a business block, costing $200,000, to be constructed entirely of white marble quarried in the Kootenay region. It is to be erected with English and French capital, and the money is already available. A little over a year ago Ernest Mandel, of Nelson, purchased the marble quarry of the West Kootenay Brick and Lime company, opposite Kaslo, on Kootenay Lake. This produces a marble of high grade, and Mr. Mandel proposed to open the quarry on a large scale. In order to demonstrate its quality, both as a building stone and for interior decoration, it will be used entirely in the construction of this block at Nelson. Plans have been prepared by Messrs. Kane & McDonald. The building will be 60x120 feet, and the front will be of finely dressed and carved marble. The columns, cornice and architraves will be of polished marble. An arcade will be run through the centre of the building with entrance through a massive arch, with polished columns on either side. Large light wells will illuminate the centre of the building, and these will have moulded and polished columns of polished marble which will run the full height. The staircase will also be of polished marble. No other material but this will be used in the building. The party will be of rock, and the building will be finished with the most elaborate and striking to be found in the world.

RECIPROCITY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made an important announcement in Montreal on Wednesday, when he said that there would be no more delegations from Canada to Washington asking for reciprocity, and that it might not be long before the case was reversed, and the United States would be inviting us to enter into reciprocal trade relations with them. The conclusion is a wise one. No one who has intelligently considered the subject can have failed to see that the problems presented by any scheme of reciprocity between this country and its great southern neighbor are many and difficult. This is only one reason why the United States would at the present time desire to make such a trade arrangement with us, namely, the desire to obtain our raw materials. We have an abundance of natural products, which its own supply is approaching exhaustion.
The population of the United States is increasing with great rapidity, and if we were to agree to an arrangement, whereby our raw materials of manufactures would have free admission into that country, it would not be very long before we arrived at a stage of exhaustion similar to that to which our neighbors have come. Canada ought to remain in a position to check the outflow of raw materials. If such a course should ever become desirable, and no check could be applied, if we agreed upon a reciprocity treaty framed expressly, as one negotiated now would have to be, to provide for the free importation into that country of our raw products. On the other hand, there is no article of that kind which we need a reciprocity treaty to obtain duty free. The chief article of natural produce which Canada needs to buy from the United States is cotton, and we can suit our own convenience as to what duty we shall put upon it, or we can allow it to enter free.
We are so independent as to the supply of raw materials, that we can adjust our tariff upon them just as we think best, without reference to the tariff of any other country. For this reason reciprocity in natural products, which was the principle of the last treaty with the United States, has no attractions to Canadians now.

It will have to be admitted that a very great change has come over the minds of Canadians on this subject during the last fifteen years. We can afford to admit now that the first years of Confederation were a disappointment commercially in their effect upon the Dominion. We can also afford to admit that the first results of the protective tariff in Canada created great dissatisfaction even among those who voted the Conservative ticket. The early days of Confederation were tentative. Business had not adjusted itself to the new conditions. There was an impetus to the development of the country. Our total foreign trade in 1880, which was two years after the introduction of the National Policy, was only $174,401,205, the exports being under one hundred millions. In 1898, after some fluctuations, the exports fell to $85,251,314, with imports worth $104, 424,501, the lowest in seven years. This made the total foreign trade of Canada, nineteen years after Confederation, $189,675,875, or only $58,548,343 more than in the first year of Confederation, when British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and Prince Edward Island were not included in the Dominion. That is to say, after eighteen years' experience of Confederation and eight years of the National Policy, the original provinces of the Union did not show an increase of much, if any, more than $30, 000,000. Since 1836 our foreign trade has grown to $381,517,230, being an increase of $101,841,361 in fifteen years, as against $52,548,343 in the previous nineteen years. Our trade with the United States grew, without reciprocity, from $81,430,808 in 1880, to $178,403, 401 last year, and in 1898 it had fallen far below the average of previous years.

Our trade with the United Kingdom in 1886 was only $82,143,828, but last year it had grown to $152,526,098. Our trade with France more than doubled, and that with Germany increased more than four-fold in the fifteen years. Our exports to Great Britain more than doubled, those to the United States nearly doubled, those to France trebled and those to Germany increased seven-fold, during the last fifteen years, showing that we were finding an outlet for our products without reciprocity. During the same period British Columbia became a good customer of the Eastern Provinces, and Manitoba and the Northwest made far greater demands upon home products than ever. During very recent years the Yukon has furnished a new and expanding market, so that not only has our foreign commerce greatly increased, but our interprovincial trade has increased in volume and profitability. We have selected the year 1886 for comparison because it was at that time that the people of Canada were loudest in their demand for reciprocity.
Both political parties were anxious for it, and the press on both sides of the line discussed it freely. It was at this time that the Liberals declared themselves in favor of unrestricted reciprocity.
The comparison between the period when the demand for reciprocity was at its height and the present, when the Premier declares that we shall no longer go to Washington asking for concessions in that direction, is specially valuable and instructive.

Canada will not seek for reciprocity because she no longer feels the need of it. Our domestic trade, that is, the business carried on between the several provinces, is large and profitable. It is probably safe to say that the five and a half millions of Canadians do as much business with each other per capita as any people in the world. In the matter of foreign trade we stand next to the United Kingdom, at least such we think will be found to be the case on fuller investigation than we have been able to give the matter today. The two greatest commercial nations in the world are the United Kingdom and the United States. The former did a per capita foreign trade last year of $33.00; the United States, a per capita foreign trade of $29.00; France had a foreign trade of $22.00 per capita. Canada's foreign trade was $70.00 per capita. Our exports were nearly $35.00 per capita; those of the United Kingdom were $33.00 per capita, and those of the United States were slightly over $18.00. Under these circumstances, we submit that the decision of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a wise one, for the time has surely arrived when Canada can afford to go forward on independent lines to develop her industries and her commerce.

THE LARDEAU DISTRICT.

We are in receipt of a map of the Lar-deau Mining District, including Fish Creek and Upper Duncan River. It is we understand, the first authoritative map of this comparatively new district, and has been compiled by Messrs. S.
Shannon and A. P. Cummins, of Ferguson, B. C. Ferguson is in the heart of the Lardeau District. We refer to the map, not to advertise the compilers or even to draw attention to the fact that it is a fine specimen of the Colonist litho-graphic work, but for the purpose of doing unto others in some measure what the map has done unto us, namely, give them some idea of where the Lardeau is and what the construction of the Lar-deau branch of the C. P. R. will mean.
Of course most people have a general idea of the location of the district, and will know that to find it on the map of British Columbia they must look in Kootenay. The district lies northeast, east and southeast of the Northeast Arm of Upper Arrow Lake, and to get to Upper Arrow Lake, you leave the main line of the C. P. R. at Revelstoke and take the Arrow Lake Branch to its southern terminus. From this point the C. P. R. location for the Lardeau railway extends along the Northeast Arm and up Fish Creek to the town of Camborne. Then it makes a curve and extends down on the east side of Fish Creek until a point opposite the head of the Arm is reached, and then it swings to the southeast up Salmon Creek and across the divide to Trout Lake, following that lake and the Lardeau river until it reaches Duncan river, which flows into the north end of Kootenay Lake.
The railway will be about 60 miles long, and if one may judge from the number of mining locations, it will open up an area of about 900 square miles, there are 1,367 recorded claims. In a general way the claims run in three belts, having a course from southeast to northwest.
One belt, and it is that containing the smallest number of claims, lies south of Lardeau river and Trout Lake and extends to the valley of Salmon creek.
Another lies north of Trout Lake and extends across the valley of Fish creek, and the third is about two and a half miles to the northeast of the second, but unites with it at the northwest extremity. When the railway is completed, and this will probably be at an early day, the Dominion having given a subsidy for it, there will be all-rail connection from Revelstoke to the head of Kootenay Lake, in a general way parallel to the Nakusp & Slocan railway, which is 25 miles further south. This affords a very good illustration of the manner in which a mining country ought to be opened by rail.

A witness at the Police Court yesterday swore that he was a liar. Now the question is: Was he? A very fine proposition of logic is involved.

It is alleged in Vancouver that Mr.
Justice Drake is to be the subject of complaint to Ottawa because of his charge in the fisheries case. We fancy that His Lordship will not lose much sleep over the matter.

The Associated Press has decided to declare war upon Lord Roberts, and to renew the operations of the Boers on a larger scale. We would be at a sad loss for "news," if intelligent correspondents were not so kind in furnishing us with sensations.

The salary of the mayor of New York is $15,000, which is not by any means an excessive remuneration for the work and responsibility. It is small enough to tempt a man to take advantage of his position in a way not contemplated by the Act of Incorporation. Mayor Low will need to be a second Aristides to turn his back upon the advantages which will be placed within his reach, and they will not all be illegitimate, either.

A correspondent recently arrived from England, asks why it is that he cannot get as tender and juicy beef here as he used to get at home. We think the answer is that the beef he used to eat was stall-fed, while what he gets here is not. He also asks why he cannot get as toothsome bacon as he could in England. We will have to request some one else to answer this. Except in regard to these two articles, he finds things very satisfactory in British Columbia.

No one will object to the manner in which the Falconer libel suit has been disposed of, but we take leave to dispute the claim that it is contrary to journalistic courtesy to disclose the name of a correspondent who writes libellous communications. We know that such is usually held, but it is not tenable. Before inserting a communication, reflecting upon individuals, an editor should inform his correspondent that he will hold himself at liberty to disclose the name of the writer, if any person aggrieved asks for it. We may further add that it is utter rubbish to suppose that a newspaper has any license to insert anonymous communications libelling individuals, or that it escapes any responsibility whatever by announcing that it does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of correspondents.
It may not be responsible for their opinions, but it is for publishing them.

That was an odd thunderstorm which Victorians had yesterday morning. It consisted of a short and heavy rain, a short and vigorous wind and a single flash of lightning, with the accompanying thunder. The cloud was very low, and must have been heavily charged with electricity. For the information of young readers, who know almost nothing about thunderstorms, we may say that it is rare for such storms to occur in the morning in Eastern Canada.
They generally come on towards the close of the afternoon, and can be seen approaching, the lightning flashes becoming brighter and the thunder peals following them closely as the storm draws near. Most thunderstorms in the East move in a circular direction, so that at the beginning the wind blows in one direction, and after a while, when the storm centre is overhead, begins to blow in the opposite direction. The duration of the latter blow is usually shorter than that of the first. Thunder, though very loud, is not usually heard to any great distance. To tell the distance of a storm, the common way is to count the pulse-beats after a flash of lightning, and the number divided by 5 will give the distance in miles. Distant thunder is usually rumbling, while a peal caused by an electric discharge near at hand may consist of a single deafening crash. The rainfall frequently begins just after a specially heavy peal of thunder and ends in the same way. Thunder in November is uncommon in Canada. Heavy thunderstorms frequently last for hours, but usually they are not of long duration. They are almost always accompanied by heavy wind. The percentage of cases where anything is struck by lightning is not high.

RE COMBINE OR ANTI-HUMBURG.

To the Editor,
Sir.—I notice in your issue of yesterday a letter signed K. J., asking for a lot of useful information to the public, and as I think you will render a little assistance I will endeavor to help you. In reply to the questions I am the same James Baker who owns the brickyard, and one of the parties who placed the brick at a firing place. Before we placed them in an agent's hands they were sold at the actual cost of making, which is not a business proposition.
With reference to ice, I am sure the public has no reason to complain of the price; it is no more here than in our neighboring cities; there is really no combine on the subject, as K. J. or the public can buy ice from the producers, and the dealers and the delivery in 10 and 20 cents lots that crashes the price to the consumer. With regard to the coal, it is not true that I endeavored to get a corner on Seattle coal, as you say. I would only be too glad to see any other dealer selling the same coal as I am selling.
Can it be possible, Mr. Editor, that I have trodden on the corns of some of our coal or friends of his that desires to make an exorbitant profit at the public's expense by being the means of lowering the public's price of coal, an article that the combine should have at a reasonable price.
I think K. J. knows more about jewels than consistency.

JAMES BAKER.

ROMAN PRESENTS.

Expensive Popular Offerings to the Royal Family.

From London Leader.
Little Princess Yolande, the infant daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, has just undergone her first experience of the drawbacks of receiving gifts that are not paid for. At the time of her birth the joy and enthusiasm of the people of Rome found its expression in the presentation of a superb cradle. Since then, however, the goldsmith who furnished the cradle has written a letter to the newspapers complaining that he has received but a small amount of the sum due to him for this cradle, and that he sees no prospect of getting the balance. So great has the public feeling that to silence the King has paid the greater part of the cost of Rome's "spontaneous and enthusiastic gift."
To his little girl, Italian sovereigns are used to this thing, however. Humbert, for instance, was obliged to pay the greater part of the expenses of the monument erected by public subscription in his grandfather, King Charles Albert, in front of the Quirinal. He was likewise obliged to foot the bill for the monument to his grandfather on the occasion of his silver wedding.

Mrs. Oakley, a widow of Swilland, near Ipswich, England, has celebrated her hundredth birthday, and has received a number of relations and friends. She was born on October 14, 1801, and though unable to walk, enjoys good health and possesses a remarkable memory.

OVER-RATED AMERICAN HORSE.

Australian Thoroughbreds in Stamina and Staying Power Are Superior.

"Vigilant," in London Sportsman.
American trainers and American jockeys have done well and taught us a good deal, but American-bred horses have certainly not beaten our records up to now. The best that we have seen of late years, Disraeli II. and Cap and Bottle are out of horses imported from England, but you would not mention either as in the same category with a Flying Fox or a Persimmon. They take the Americans generally, though they outnumber the Australian importations in this country by almost 30 to 1, what results of theirs can we pretend to compare with those achieved by Merano, Maluma, Kewha, Gendrix, The Greyfriar, Australian Star, etc.? There have been a lot of very useful American horses, but none like the Australians mentioned above. It would be idle for any American to pretend they have bred for many years past a horse to compare with Merano, Ben Hol-

Sailors Give Farewell Ball

Over Four Hundred Enjoyed the Officers' Parting Dance
Last Night.

Brilliant Scene Within the Well Decorated Ball Room in Naval Yard.

The annual ball of the officers of the fleet at Esquimalt was held last night in the sail loft and condemned stores building in the naval yard, and as the flagship Warspite, accompanied by the cruisers Phaton and Comdor, are to leave in less than a month, the pleasant gathering was, as it were, the farewell of the popular sailors. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Joly, together with the elite of Victoria, were there, and at least four hundred sailors, in the most comfortable and pleasant manner, were entertained. The scene within the buildings from which the sails and stores had been ejected to make ball rooms for the sailors' guests, was gay indeed. Bunting hid every part of the ball room except the floor, and in the prettily arranged cloak rooms, dressing rooms, drawing rooms, smoking rooms, etc., and spacious dining room, into which the sail loft had been partitioned, the floor even was hidden by the scheme of decoration. The store room was used as the ball room, and entering the floor from beneath the canopy of bunting, at the entrance, a riot of color greeted the eye. The foreign ensigns of many lands about the St. James' Sea composed the scene, and the brightly draped rafters and the walls, broken as they were into alcoves and cosy corners by the bunting and flags, gave a pleasing effect. In the centre of the drapings of each alcove was a picture of bayonets, and cleaning rods and other arms, and shining from these panels of trophies were colored lights, adding brilliancy to the larger chandeliers of light, which were suspended from the rafters from one end of the building.

In the corner nearest the entrance was the raised platform, where Signor Post-nazza and his musicians sat and played soft, tuneful music, including familiar airs from the rag-time favorites to operatic gems, and all in suitable time for the dancers. In another corner nearby was a large cosy corner, and across the well-waxed floor at the opposite side of the building, two children's games showed the row of polished barrels from beneath the leaves of large palms. At the entrance, too, the warlike little machine guns stood like silent sentinels.

The room was a scene of beauty, irrespective of those who occupied it, when the steady, rhythmic, twinkling, snarling and pretty decorations covering its old-looking sides, was much admired. On either side of this room stood the warlike Maxims and small machine guns, their shining tubes hidden partially in the folds of the palms, and on one side of the canvas-walled hall leading from the cloak rooms to the drawing rooms, stood a shining eighteen-inch Whitehead torpedo. On the walls were more panels similar to those of the ball room, with gleaming mirrors and bayonets, forming stars from which stood out the colored electric lights.

The large supper room was entered from the drawing room, and the bunting lung doorway was guarded by two more machine guns, with their many barrels pointing triangularly across the entrance. Inside the decoration was on the same lavish scale, and the long tables, which were placed on three sides of the room, and the smaller tables—each seating four—which were spread about the centre of the room, were all heavily-laden with appetizing refreshments, and here the dancers appeased their appetites with dancing and while the fleet sailed away to the South on December 2 next.

According to news from Dawson two Victorians engaged in business in the Klondike capital have cornered the oat market of the northern district. The two firms, J. Mich, Midshipman, Lindsay Wilson, have secured a corner on all oats in the district. On the morning of October 20 teamsters and small dealers having occasion to buy were dumfounded to find that quotations had advanced 9 cents a pound, a jump of $60 per ton. Some sales were reported at $200 per ton.

It appears that during the latter part of September and the first of October the firms mentioned bought up practically all of the small stocks, leaving the oat supply controlled by them and the large companies.

The total supply of oats in Dawson and the Klondike, October 20, was estimated at 2,500 tons. There are about 1,500 head of horses in the Klondike district, and therefore practically nothing else save hay and oats.

There were no large stocks of oats en route to Dawson at the time the manipulators worked the corner.

Thunder Storm—Easterners were made to feel at home and others to shiver for a few short seconds yesterday morning. At about 7:30 there was a sharp clap of thunder and a flash of lightning, which although was over in a second and not repeated, managed to do considerable damage. A car on the Fort street line was struck by the lightning in front of Mr. D. W. Higgins' residence, and the driver, S. Parkhill was thrown to the platform and the armature of the car burning out it had to be towed to the car sheds for repairs.

The telephone and call systems also suffered considerably, and after the storm had passed over line-men were kept busy making repairs. Several minor accidents were reported. A heavy rain followed the electrical storm, and then came the sun and Victoria was once again herself.

Colley-Lamb—Frank Colley, of the post office staff, and Miss Lath Lamb, were married last evening by Rev. J. P. Hicks, in the presence of a number of friends, who manifested their good will towards the happy pair by wishing them joy, long life and happiness, supplemented by complimentary gifts with many valuable and useful presents. The bride was attended by Miss Heather as bridesmaid, and Fred. Foster acted as best man and Mr. Deville gave away the bride. After the ceremony the principals and guests partook of a dainty wedding supper and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Apology From Outlook's Editor

Published Letter Concerning the City Officials Without Carefully Reading It.

A Public Apology Made Yesterday Afternoon in the Police Court.

D. Falconer, editor of the Outlook, yesterday apologized to the Mayor, aldermen and city officials for the publication of the letter appearing in the last issue of the paper, making serious charges against the parties named, and the information in which he was charged with criminal libel was withdrawn. The whole matter was arranged while the court was waiting for the lawyers to commence the proceedings, and while a very complete apology was made, the wish of the Mayor to secure the name of the writer of the letter, so that he could be called upon to make good the charges he suffered the consequences, was not fulfilled. However, those interested have an idea who the writer is, and may at some later day be able to obtain direct evidence against him.

When Justices of the Peace Pearson and Shotbolt took their seats on the bench at the city police court, Mr. Bradburn, who appeared for the council and officials, asked for a few minutes in which to confer with Mr. McPhillips, counsel for Mr. Falconer. Twenty-five minutes later the lawyers were still conferring, and Mr. Pearson drew their attention to the fact that it was open to them to apply for an adjournment, if they were not ready to go on. Mr. Bradburn replied that they would hope to make an announcement in a moment. After another pause of nearly 10 minutes, during which the Mayor and aldermen and Mr. Northcott were drawn into the conference and a lawyer's clerk went out and returned with a neatly typewritten paper, which was read in by the interested parties. Mr. Bradburn rose and said that Mr. Falconer said that he had inserted the letter without carefully reading it, and that he did not know the contents, or he would not have published it. The editor was satisfied that the letter was not justified and was prepared to apologize, and the Mayor, aldermen and officials were prepared to accept the apology, but they would have liked to have some further and better given the name of the writer. This Mr. Falconer had declined to do, but it was to be hoped that the man would come forward and give his name, so that he could make his charges specific, so that they could be investigated. The apology followed. To His Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen and City Officials of the City of Victoria, B.C.:

I wish to express my regret for the insertion by me of a letter signed "One of the Three" in a copy of The Outlook of the 2nd November instant. I inserted the same without reading it carefully, and now having had an opportunity of doing so, I frankly admit that the same contains defamatory and scandalous matter, and ought not to have been written or published. I wish, therefore, to apologize to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen and City Officials for having published the letter complained of, and to state that I consider the charges therein contained are absolutely unwarranted and untrue, and I trust my apology will be accepted.

Dated this 7th day of November, 1901.
D. FALCONER.

In view of this apology, Mr. Bradburn asked that he be allowed to withdraw the information, and the request was granted.

Mr. McPhillips said that his client had acted on his advice, but at the same time he did not think there was anything in the letter that the Mayor, aldermen or officials could take umbrage at. Persons holding public offices must expect to be criticized. At the same time he did not believe for a moment that the Mayor, aldermen or officials would act as characterized in the letter.

Mr. Bradburn said that he did not know that there were to be any trials to the apology. The officials were not public men, and he read from the article to show that it was not fair criticism.

The Profits of Poultry Raising

Expert Relates His Experiences to the Matsqui Farmers' Institute.

Three Hundred Thousand Dollars Sent Away Yearly For Eggs and Chickens.

The regular meeting of the Matsqui Farmers' Institute was held on Tuesday, October 29, in the new Municipal hall, at 2:30 p. m., to conduct routine business, and to hear addresses from Mr.
Blanchard, poultry expert from Port Townsend, Washington, on the "Care and Profits of Poultry," and from Mr.
D. C. Anderson, of Rugby, Ont., on the "Advantages of Poultry."

The day opened and continued fine, which resulted in a good attendance.
Owing to the unavoidable absence of the President (serving on the jury of the Lassiz de la Roche, A. Hawkins occupied the chair in his usual able and characteristic style.

Mr. Blanchard was the first speaker called upon.
Mr. Blanchard said: There were imported into this province for the year 1900 nearly $300,000 worth of eggs and poultry. A very large sum of money to have been paid out for a product that ought to be supplied by the farmers and poultry men of the province.

I am a Washington State dairyman, but I now propose telling you how we became interested in our dairy farm in poultry and how Mrs. Blanchard manages the poultry. A deep interest in the work is indispensable, which, if wanting, can often be acquired by the study of the poultry and its products.

At the commencement of sale I will sell in lots to suit purchasers.

Ground Has Been Broken

Route for First Section of Extension of V. & S. Railway Approved.

Rails, Ties and Other Materials Will Be Brought in by Rail.

Ground was broken on A street yesterday morning for the extension of the V. & S. railway to the market building, which is to be the depot for the Victoria Terminal Railway and Ferry. This is the first practical step towards giving Victoria direct rail connection with the American system of railways through the Great Northern, which road the line will eventually join at Liverpool, its present British Columbia terminus. The company intend to push to completion the piece of road to bring the Victoria & Sidney line into the heart of the city.
The work will be done from the Hillside avenue station, the V. & S. being used as a freight during construction.
The rails, which are to come from Seattle, will be landed at Sidney, and the ties will be brought from points along the line to the extension of the line.
The transportation for construction purposes will be by rail. Announcements in regard to the construction of the ferry steamer and the line from Liverpool to the month of the Fraser will be made shortly.

Under the by-law it is necessary for the company to supply the city engineer with plans before commencing any work. The plan for the extension of the V. & S. through the city was not quite complete, but yesterday morning the city council met and approved the plan for the first section from the V.
& S. to the corner of Blanchard and Fisgard streets. This first section parallels the V. & S. along A street, and then crosses private property to First street, along First street to Bay street, through Finlayson's fields to Blanchard street, and along the latter street to the corner of Fisgard. The second section will have to show the route to the Market, and the connection with the E. & N. railway.

and common sense remarks of the speaker who had just addressed them. He felt no little diffidence in having to speak after such an eloquent discourse, but earning to the subject of the day was a great one and far-reaching as it was from East to West, and from North to South, and as important as it was far-reaching, he soon convinced his audience that it was no such thing as on this subject as he had gone through the mill.

Time now talent will permit of the writer giving a title of his well chosen and from time to time well chosen remarks. He asked among other things, how much better off is the man in the city with a salary of $1,000 a year, with his family to keep, house rent and other expenses attending upon city life, to that of the average farmer? Why in a great many cases it is in favor of the latter. Take the spread table of a well organized farmer's family; all the household necessities are produced on his farm (except perhaps his sugar, tea, pepper and salt) and compare those with every bought article on the former's table. These purchased articles alone reduce his salary by one half, and he is other things by about another quarter, and less of time as a rule will take the balance; as the city mechanic as a rule can only rely on nine months work a year.

The miner in a great many instances would be better off chopping fire wood at $3.00 a cord than the pursuit he follows. I ask what means this constant driving of the farmer away from his time will come, and he is now far distant, when many will wish they had the old homestead again in their possession.
I have proved it again and again, as the good old story of the inventions and labor-saving devices may come and go, lessening the chances of obtaining daily bread, if lightening the labor, but the farm cares none for these, it must obtain its living by the sweat of the brow life products to the world. I say again, working men and women too, be alive to your interests while yet you can, as the night comes when no man can work, so the farmer is in need of his land, when these opportunities you now have of securing a home and reaping for yourself and families may be forever lost.

I am free to admit the many difficulties, hindrances and obstacles that the first dozen years attendant upon farm life, but none the more than all daily labor entails. I ask you, Mr.
Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, to take a glimpse at the calls extended upon the vacancies in our city churches pulpits. Are they men over 50? Who are wanted in our shops, and factories, and workshops, and in nearly every pursuit life? Is it the now stooping, gray-haired man of 50? No, No. This man is not in it in the race; but the young man, like the young horse, is securing his best work to accomplish. Well now, what to be done with the man at the shady side of 50, who has given the best part of his life to manual labor in the service of different employers, under existing conditions, without having the opportunity to make much provision for old age? I submit it is better for this man at the late hour to stop and think, and he will act wisely if he secures a piece of land and cultivates a garden and produces chickens and eggs for this ever-increasing demand of which we have heard so much, and had so well put before us this afternoon. If it is memory serves me right, some $200,000 worth of the values of the poultry product alone annually in Canada. Now if I was a young man, and was asked my choice, what I would do, secure a farm of 100 acres and enter upon it while young with his hard and up hill work for the first 20 years of entry, as necessitated by the primitive state of this country, which would secure to myself and dependants a position and standing at after 50 years, that would laugh at the elements, and securing to my children a legacy worth bringing them into the world for, or on the other hand be content to grow on in a style and way too common in our midst today. I would accept the former.

What do we find in England at the present time? Two classes of land and man-nate of agricultural lands, I mean by that, that which is brought into a state of cultivation are sold for £50 an acre, and when a sane or land takes place by public auction, no working man being a mechanic or laborer, as a ghost of a show, allow eagerly he is outbitten, and the same boughly as a general rule by the already landed proprietor. And yet in this province we as well as in others, a pleasant and enjoyable tour in spring and summer, both by sea and land, of only about 15 days in the most beautiful holiday trip, and in a country where climate is so superior to a climate equal to that of England (and I doubt if any more rain falls here than does in Manchester) there remains idle thousands upon thousands of acres of land that can be made to and will be made ere yet, blossom as the rose, and prove as productive and profitable as any now in cultivation. Well may our countrymen in his recent letter addressed to the Governor-General of Canada in conveying his thanks for the loyalty shown and displayed by the people of Canada on his recent visit, recommending among other things mentioned, of the high and wider held open in this country from the congested state of things existing there in England, which had been distinctly noticeable in the short visit now before us, we expect such great and good results.

You heard Mr. Blanchard speak this afternoon of how he had enlisted and created an interest in his own family by their participation in the profits on poultry-keeping. I doubt if he has been troubled for a moment in his boys and girls wishing to exchange farm for city life. A good deal has been said and written on this subject, and well it may be. I heard of a farmer who wished to make a change and retire to the city, and of three years the father had a chance and sold it for $35, and when Tommy came in and learnt of what had been done, of course he wanted the money.
Did he get it? No, he got it well known of another calf for maintenance and care. Would it be a wonder if this boy didn't want to leave the farm, and all his belongings never wishing to return to the farm? I am sure if I were this selfish feeling. It is not to be wondered in such cases as I have just stated it does and girls leave the ranch. Why cannot we, as parents, make farm life more pleasant and more profitable? If we do this we should have far less room for complaints. We ought not to give stones for bread. Let us endeavor to make our homes as agreeable and musical as possible, for surely instruments are cheap enough now days.

What is wanted in British Columbia is better and cheaper facilities for shipping farm produce, and enabling both your wives and daughters to embrace the opportunity of tans traveling every now and again by some very much reduced weekly market train or boat, to attend the market and take in the city. Why should the men folk do all the running to town? Lowering of the rates should at least take place from the 1st of May till the end of September in every year, and would prove a boon to the public, again demonstrating the fact that a quick penny is better than a slow shilling. Our adjoining cities require this to stimulate their up-building and soli-dity. There should be no leniency shown to any desire for warped and cramped dealings, but the man or company that is not in the march of progress will be left behind.

Is British Columbia a place where a person can starve in? Is it a place of which you can read in the daily press that so and so was found starved to death? Is there to be found here the same extreme poverty and squalid conditions as in some of our cities in the most of our cities in the Old Country?
I answer, never. While the Fraser river rolls along so majestically through our midst with its teaming millions of food-supplying fish, and the tickling of the ground yielding such bountiful results; no hunger need be felt in this land. Now, I will leave the matter with you. It is a step in life for yourselves to decide. It may, while taken at the turn, lead on to fortune, for, depend upon it, farming, like any other calling, will of all pursuits readily respond to a determined, earnest effort, and success depend more upon ourselves.

Mr. Anderson concluded a very masterly speech with a grand peroration, taking his seat amidst a round of cheers.

Thus ended one of the most enjoyable and interesting institute meetings for some time held. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the speaker, and also to the chairman, and several names were added to the institute membership.

Master—Why did you run away, my boy?

Boy—Because the mistress was so unkind to me.

Master—Tut-tut! That is no excuse.
Do I run away?—Chicago Journal.
